Configurable skid design for any equipment layout needed, including wall and floor openings

Steel skids are part of our modular Self Frame and Rigid Frame building packages. These fully assembled structures can be transported to site and off-loaded by truck or placed onto piles using cranes. Our advanced welding facilities are capable of manufacturing any size skids with speed and precision. Custom designed skids can be tailored to meet client specification and engineered to support heavy equipment. Makloc skids are used in all types of applications and industries.

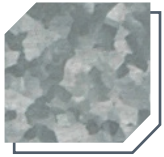

Transporting an assembled modular building to site is an effective way to reduce time on-site and cost of building in remote locations.

Our state-of-the-art custom roll former takes 18, 20, or 22 gauge sheet metal and forms the interlocking ribbed panels in seconds. It is easily switched between wall and roof panels, and 3" & 4.5" rib depths, allowing for quick set-up and consistent quality.
